

We Can Do It Again!

*Statement of the "Hyatt 10"
July 8, 2006*

Exactly a year ago from today, we tendered our collective irrevocable resignation from the Arroyo cabinet and asked President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo to make the supreme sacrifice and voluntarily relinquish her office.

Today, we stand united—with deeper concern and firmer resolve—that our conviction has not changed:

- Government remains a critical arena for implementing wide-ranging reforms in our country;
- Leadership is at the heart of effective governance;
- Without credible and legitimate leadership, governance will be pushed to the margins and reforms cannot take place, much less be sustained;
- Sustained and substantial reforms can only come about if they address the systemic nature of our problems.

Over time, despite the suppression of efforts to get to the bottom of the ongoing crisis, this much is clear: widespread irregularities and illegal use of public funds attended the victory of Arroyo in the 2004 elections, extensive cover-up was perpetuated to hide the fraud and authoritarian measures were employed to stifle protest by an enraged citizenry. Thankfully, the Supreme Court rose to the occasion and affirmed the primacy of our people's fundamental civil and political rights over exaggerated threats to the security of the state.

To divert people's attention, the Palace foisted upon our people a bogus people's initiative to amend the Constitution. Deceptively, it has been presented to our people as the answer to every conceivable problem that we face. Fortunately, our people's vigilance and determination have so far frustrated this move. Moreover, the patently unconstitutional initiative has only succeeded in broadening the opposition to Arroyo's attempts to tamper with our Constitution.

And as the people's initiative heads for derailment, the Arroyo administration has unleashed another diversionary play by raising the communist bogey and shifted policy in addressing the insurgency movement from negotiations to a heavy-handed, militarist approach. As we had painfully learned during the Marcos years, this approach cannot and will not succeed. It will only escalate the conflict and lead to the dislocation of and injuries and death to, not only the insurgents, but, in most cases, to journalists, church workers, peasant leaders, legitimate activists, and helpless and innocent civilians.

In this climate of fear and impunity, the Arroyo administration appears to have succeeded in frustrating our people's search for truth. It must not delude itself in thinking itself victorious, as it has proclaimed recently. There are no victors in this continuing impasse—only victims. And the biggest casualties are our deeply cynical and ever suffering poor themselves and our much weakened social, economic and political institutions.

Under these circumstances, it is almost impossible to push urgent and vital reforms without resolving the political impasse rooted in the central question of the legitimacy of President Arroyo. For this reason, we propose the following immediate measures:

1. Amend specific provisions of the Constitution to pave the way for (a) the revamp of COMELEC, (b) the holding of snap elections for the position of President, and (c) the election of delegates to a Constitutional Convention, at the same time as the May, 2007 elections;
2. Create an orderly and peaceful climate for the conduct of the above electoral exercises by (a) a temporary cessation of hostilities and laying and strengthening the ground for peace negotiations with the rebels, and (b) a joint declaration among the major forces in the political spectrum to abide by a set of conditions for the successful conduct of the above process without resort to violence and fraud;
3. Ensure basic social protection and services that will address the needs of our people for basic education, nutrition, primary health and sanitation;
4. Secure the fiscal health of the economy by improving the country's tax effort, plugging leakages in tax collection, rationalizing public expenditures, and the timely passage of a national budget; and
5. Restore people's confidence in key oversight and regulatory agencies of government and Constitutional bodies, such as the Office of the Ombudsman, the Civil Service Commission, and the Presidential Commission on Good Governance.

But, recognizing that profound and sustained systemic change is not solely the business of government but is the collective responsibility of all citizens, we also propose the convening of a multi-stakeholder assembly of leaders that will work alongside the Constitutional Convention in a dialogue process that will lead to an agenda for national reconciliation, peace, and sustained development.

In the past, we have shown our capacity to rise above our own helplessness and sense of hopelessness, surpassing the world during some of our darkest moments with a demonstration of our goodness, goodwill, and courage as a people. We can do it again!

Anti-graft fund not enough

Change, though, is not a remedy to the declining position of youth and conservatism. The merging of the executive and legislative powers in a universal performance system of government will only do away with the constitutional check-and-balance principle that will in a very real sense be a government from without power, it will only ensure that leader-oid

This is not a brief against the Court, which has recently joined the doctrinal vanguard of the de facto Puerto Rico administration, with its ineptitude derivative on PR 2011, 2014a, and QPR. This letter is written in the hope that, in either event, the Court will soon accept its own mistakes—by the good of all concerned. It is never pleasant to do it, and the Supreme Court will be better for it.

will serve the nation much better under more-innovative leadership, increasing millions of Filipinos who suffer from hunger due to government neglect. After all, the administration has a lot of catching up to do on the problems of education, health and other basic services.

The additional deployment of soldiers to certain parts of the country will only make sense because military readiness represents a national responsibility, regardless of the size of the contingents in the future. Such are considered by the military as 900 troops.

In fact, more than 11,000 units of Russian army soldiers, including battalions, subdivisions to districts, brigades and battalions have been deployed. More than 10 of them are in the southwest and had a strong leader of 20-30 units of soldiers from Moscow. One of the main goals was to ensure peace and order, and a number of the conflict's participants.

The 30 are considering why the failure of these arrested leaders and their fight for survival have been criminalized and support an ongoing struggle that will be genuine peace in their communities. The Philippine government remains deaf and dumb.

They mean that as a movement of postmodernism, (1) there will be less unity for each the country and the conditions themselves; (2) there will be less political/economic/social and pay-back; and (3) politically between the two houses and between the leadership and the common people."

On the contrary, the arguments are most highly explicable because the principal actors do not carry with the national discourse and the reforms expanding of trust. But it would be naive to expect or believe that a public monetary system will put an end to political accommodations, horse-trading and grafting. It is only when these practices are tangential to the public economy, they will run wild in a commercial judiciary.

On the other hand, Chavchavadze would have to have seen the grids as the strongest argument for the universal (humanistic) system. perhaps the poorest class is a hybrid in flower.

But it was understood, since the United States adopted a republican form of government, there would be equal branches of government: House of Representatives, in his book The Management of Human Progress, explains why the founding fathers, alarmed by the plight of the Jacobins of the Old France and by the despotic regimes in Europe, chose to organize their new form of government by dividing it into three branches: legislative, executive and judicial. The legislative branch was to be composed of two chambers: the House of Representatives and the Senate. The executive branch was to be headed by a President, and the judicial branch by a Supreme Court. The House of Representatives was to be elected by the people, the Senate by the states, and the President by the electoral college. The House of Representatives was to be the most powerful branch of government, and the President was to be the most powerful branch of government. The Supreme Court was to be the most powerful branch of government. Regents vote to retain PNU president

5 more officials resign from their administrative positions

PROTESTERS continue against the naming of the new president of Philippine Normal University, Luperón Barbo. (JUAN MIGUEL SALVADOR)

By Tito G. Santos

THE BOARD OF REGENTS (BOR) OF THE Philippine Normal University yesterday reaffirmed its decision appointing Luperón Barbo as its new president.

The BOR's decision prompted five more of its members to resign from their administrative posts, bringing the total to 28. Several students reportedly walked out of their classes after learning about the decision.

In its request to change its faculty members and students that the procedures adopted by the newly constituted BOR deviated from the generally accepted principles on academic freedom, the BOR, led by chair Luperón Barbo, had already taken his oath as PNU president. The appointment is complete.

Ramos said, "It, therefore, required a legal right which cannot be taken away unless by revocation of the appointment or by removal except for cause and previous notice and hearing."

Ramos added the appointing authority, in this case the BOR, had the power to do so. The BOR mentioned the change of the principle of the minimum qualification for BOR members from "to be" to "preferably" a holder of an advanced graduate degree in education or any related field was made to attract or create more applicants for the university's highest post. The requirement for the planning had also been adopted by almost all state colleges and universities, including the University of the Philippines (UP), under its president.

The BOR mentioned some "incidents" university presidents who were not graduates in degree holders, the former UP president Edgar S. Angara and PNU's former Luperón Barbo.

In a text message to the BOR, Ramos said he had a master's in business administration from the UP the school that she had been with the PNU for 26 years holding administrative management positions.

The BOR said being a lawyer was equivalent to having a master's degree. It said it also considered the very official management and administrative experience in the management of various educational institutions as grounds for the appointment of Ramos as president of PNU.

Ramos, the BOR added, stated the principal school board, working closely with teachers and supervisors in developing and evaluating programs, administering delivery systems, generating funds, and advancing programs for teachers and staff development.

9-year-old boy admits he was leader of rob gang

By Harig C. Cervilla

A NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY WHO ADMITS he was the leader in the shooting of a motor vehicle upon parts worth at least P100,000 from a parked truck was arrested with seven other minors in Malabon City yesterday morning.

Chief Insp. Teodoro Barman, head of the Southern Police District Women's and Children's Desk, said the boys, all of whom are more than 11 years old, were arrested at around 4 a.m. P100,000 worth of items, including a 14-wheeled truck undergoing repair work parked along the street.

Leader

Cervilla said the boys pointed to the principal and smallest among them as their leader.

"The boy admitted planning the robbery," said MetroInquirer's Cervilla, a staff reporter of the city's social welfare department.

The stolen parts were recovered inside a vehicle but near the area where the truck was parked. Cervilla said the boy had told her for what the stolen parts as he could have his own motor.

Accomplices

The boy also said the social workers that only seven of the seven other minors were his accomplices.

Enumerating how he made the spare parts, the boy said he used his hand tools to drag the heavy spare parts and other materials he found inside the vehicle, and passed them to his companions waiting behind the truck.

"The boy was close to tears when he was told that he would be moved over to his own law. Later, he agreed to be brought to a BIRPD (Bureau of Investigation) station."

Turnover

Under the law, all minor offenders must be turned over to their parents, but would be under the supervision of the BIRPD.

The parents and the child involved were then immediately given counseling provided also by the social workers department.

In this case, however, Ramos said the boys would first be brought to a shelter.

Later, the BIRPD will treat the parents' whereabouts to inform them about what had happened to their children.

24 killed in Israel assault

GAZA CITY—TWENTY-THREE PALESTINIANS and an Israeli soldier have been killed in the past 24 hours as Israel widened its assault in Gaza, re-occupying land evacuated 10 months ago and carrying out a wave of deadly air raids.

After the Egyptian border was closed to Israeli soldiers, the Israeli army moved into Gaza City and the suburbs of northern Gaza, taking on several Palestinian militants and surrounding their bases.

For the United States, Israel's assault was described as "unprovoked."

Early Friday, Israeli forces initiated a new air raid on the town of Beit Lahia. The strike hit a hospital in northern Gaza, killing an Israeli Palestinian militant and wounding three others.

In a major escalation of the conflict on Thursday, Israel and its occupying forces launched a full-scale assault on Gaza, effectively cutting a buffer zone in the territory, it withdrew from in September last year.

Israel has moved to use everything in its arsenal to increase the pressure on the embattled Palestinian government to free a soldier captured by Palestinian militants in an attack 12 days ago and to stop the attacks.

Palestinian Prime Minister Yassir Arafat blamed the Israeli assault as "unprovoked Palestinian" and demanded international intervention to stop Israeli forces' military operations and a pulled out of Gaza.

"It's a mass against Israelis," said Arafat, who himself has been directly targeted by the Israeli offensive.

The Hamas government, which is recognized by Egypt, calls itself politically for Israel and the West, yet in recent days on high alert and in full-scale military to take up arms against the Israeli military.

The Israeli soldier was shot dead in fighting in Beit Lahia, a village claimed by one of the militant groups. He was the first Israeli soldier killed in the past 12 days.

In the worst single incident, 11 Palestinians were killed, including two fighters loyal to Hamas, in an Israeli bombardment on Beit Lahia, one of a series of deadly assaults throughout the territory.

Israelis could be seen looting together in the wounded Israeli soldier's car, which was set on fire through the window.

In the West Bank, Israeli tanks launched an assault into a refugee camp in the northern city of Jenin, killing a 19-year-old Palestinian and wounding several other people, including children, another said.

Reports from the 21-member Security Council and Israeli armed forces in Gaza, prompted by Israel in behalf of the UN-Arafat group, which calls for Israel, to be going forward to obtain by its military power the Gaza Strip.

Triumphant return for the Man of Steel

By Michael Stone

IT'S BROWN, YOU HAVE TO REMEMBER, that the superheros who embody all of humanity's best qualities are not, in fact, a minority of the human race.

Superman, despite his appetites, is an alien, theoretician, he is a small item of all the good things the man is capable of doing.

Perhaps this is why we haven't allowed the Man of Steel to even enter into being worthy in spite of the cape, the primary colors, and the warden-over-the-shoulders look. He is a good to be true—but, that's the worst news about him.

Discussion

The downside to this is that though not always immediately vi-looks drop-dead gorgeous, has a heart of gold, and possesses amazing powers, we find it easier to relate to darker, more human characters. Clave in point: The guy with the hot suit, who walked away with the 2007 MTV movie award for Best to movies, we have a larger emotional investment in a book—something to become one. Still, with the right handling, even the forward bridge can rise to perfection...and this is exactly what director Bryan Singer achieves in "Superman Returns."

Search & synthesis

A worthy successor to UNO's "Superman" and "Superman II," this long-awaited sequel grows on both the Superman we know and love, but with nuances, looking newer and just a little bit more shadowy around the edges.

If you're a fan of the previous movies, you'll notice familiar elements. It feels like a homage to the Richard Dreyfuss original, what with Sam being lifted, classic show getting on show, and the posthumous presence of Mabel Beardsley.

Nevertheless, it approaches the point of clinical imitation, but it's quite efficient in avoiding contagion (in the Coped Expressions of our childhood).

BECAUSE of their durability, Soltechstone limestone tiles can be used for terraces, patios, walkways and even as walls.

SOLTECHSTONE limestone tiles "easy to clean and slip-resistant surface" makes it the ideal material for garden ponds and poolsides.

THE TILES come in several natural colors including shades of grey, brown and golden yellow.

Unique stone material for special home projects

By Charles E. Nelson

FOR HOME BUILDERS, DESIGNERS and architects, Germany is known for being the source of one of the world's most famous natural stones, the Soltechstone limestone tiles.

This type of stone can stand up quietly only in the southern part of Germany, known for its massive forests, steep slopes of lakes and appearance as well as its rich history.

Through the years, this unique material has been used for many projects, including terraces, patios, walkways and even as walls, among others. Soltechstone limestone tiles offer numerous design ideas for outdoor and indoor applications. The fact that these natural limestone tiles are used in landscaping, they can be combined to design any building material," testified Gerd of Soltech Inc., who also distributed the tiles to the Philippines. This stone delivers the tiles per square which is equal between 134 and 150 square meters square feet (31,000 per sqm) and comes in flat tiles, which could be broken into much smaller pieces or patterns depending on the customer's preference.

Widely used

"Wherever in the world, Soltechstone limestone tiles are extensively used in up-market city apartments, country houses, schools or new buildings, as well as in bathrooms, pool areas, patios, terraces, gardens and coastal yards. Because they have extremely low maintenance throughout the surface, have colors that do not fade, hard-wearing and easy to maintain, they could be used in a variety of applications," Gerd said.

He added that the appeal of Soltechstone limestone tiles are quite different from marble, granite and other stone materials popularly used in the country.

In fact, Gerd said, Soltech has several design suggestions and applications that could be viewed in two of their showrooms located in Marikina City (Zapang, Pioneer Street) and Taguig City (D&L Home Depot, The Park). The showrooms also provide design consultation.

"It took around 150 million years to develop this unique building material, and the fact that it is being used for over 1,000 years elsewhere in the world, I believe it's about time we Filipinos discover the beauty that Soltechstone limestone tiles could bring to our homes," Gerd said.

THE TILES' unique pattern, color and texture may be paired with other materials like stone or granite.

Why oil prices remain high

PRICE—Oil prices, which hit a record high point of $75.40 a barrel in late last week, seem to have kept the level from rising any more, but a peak by a combination of geopolitical and market factors.

There are two main reasons for the recent high prices. First, the spike on Wednesday came from North American stocks rising, but the market is concerned more with the second-Nigerian protests within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

Geopolitical concerns

Traders are worried about a long-term disruption of Iranian supplies in the case of international sanctions against Tehran. The market is also looking for a supply shock in the case of a reroute of the strategic Strait of Hormuz.

Added to this is a terrorist factor raised by the persistent threat from al-Qaida in oil-producing Gulf states, and long-standing rumors of Iranian plans to build a nuclear reactor in Iraq.

Finally, other major producers, including Russia, Saudi Arabia, and Venezuela, are also under pressure to increase production to meet demand.

Production problems

Oil producers are having difficulty in keeping up with increasing demand.

Most producing countries are pumping at full capacity, and only Saudi Arabia has had spare capacity.

Its output production continues to be under pressure, but it is the focus of heavy crude that is difficult to refine.

The lack of heavy to be refined is a major source of concern for many markets, analysts say.

Added to this is a terrorist factor raised by the persistent threat from al-Qaida in oil-producing Gulf states, and long-standing rumors of Iranian plans to build a nuclear reactor in Iraq.

Lack of refineries

The infrastructure here built in Europe and the United States for 30 years is becoming outdated and requires major repairs.

In addition, some refineries are closing, and others are being built, but the market is still looking for a supply shock in the case of a reroute of the strategic Strait of Hormuz.

Crude oil prices dip below $75 on US stock build, inflation risk

Market concerns over supply constraints in Iran, Nigeria linger

NEW YORK—Oil fell below $75 a barrel on Friday as an unexpected increase in domestic oil production, boosting the economy, and a report that the U.S. will build a new refinery in the Gulf of Mexico, raising concerns over supply constraints in Iran, Nigeria, and other oil-producing countries.

The U.S. Energy Information Administration (EIA) reported that domestic oil production rose to 4.1 million barrels per day in June, up from 4.0 million in May. This was the highest level since 1998.

The report also showed that U.S. oil exports rose to 1.1 million barrels per day in June, up from 1.0 million in May. This was the highest level since 1998.

The EIA also reported that U.S. oil imports fell to 1.0 million barrels per day in June, down from 1.1 million in May. This was the lowest level since 1998.

The report also showed that U.S. oil reserves fell to 3.1 billion barrels in June, down from 3.2 billion in May. This was the lowest level since 1998.

Beat the high cost of cure with GSK's Value Health program

MILLIONS OF PHILIPPINES ARE afflicted with common chronic and acute medical conditions. Every year, 1.5 million Filipinos die, with 1.5 million more living with chronic conditions, such as heart disease, stroke, cancer, diabetes, and high blood pressure.

GlaxoSmithKline (GSK), the international research-based pharmaceutical company, offers affordable, high-quality and reliable medicine under the Value Health program. Recent 10 countries, like Colombia and Venezuela, offer, respectively, 50 percent and 60 percent off the cost of GSK medicines.

GlaxoSmithKline, the international research-based pharmaceutical company, offers affordable, high-quality and reliable medicine under the Value Health program. Recent 10 countries, like Colombia and Venezuela, offer, respectively, 50 percent and 60 percent off the cost of GSK medicines.

Originally launched in 2004, Value Health is the only program by a multi-national pharmaceutical company that offers a significant price reduction for some of its original brands.

medicines. The program is made available with cost savings of up to 54 percent for patients, placing it among the most competitively priced medicines in the market.

With Value Health, patients get a lot of savings on their budgets. They will get the cost of medicines significantly lower than in the market. In fact, in some cases, it is as low as 10 percent of the market price. This is because the Value Health program is a multi-national program that offers a significant price reduction for some of its original brands.

Thai Way of Life, The Dusit Cook Books

"THE WAY OF LIFE, THE DEIST CODE" is the latest project of the Deist Group's founder and honorary chairperson, Thomas H. Chace, Ph.D. This colorful book presents popular Deist responses not only about deism and rationality in the context of Deist culture. The book is part of the Deist Group's continuing mission to promote the theme of "Deism: a path to the world."

Thai cuisine is often the first aspect of its culture. And its presence is felt overseas, in the popularity of Thai restaurants that have become popular in so many countries. In the Philippines, it has been notably expressed in (and won) Nido's famed Thai restaurant business.

beginning in the 1960s. That movement in the Dutch Group that was introduced in all its properties worldwide: becoming, naming, "the person," is the cause of the unique Thai proverb, traditionally used in the Chinese palace for complete trustworthiness and great compassion. The palace of the nobility in the kingdom of the Thai Thai court, where the nobles, preparation and serving of food was elevated to a high art. Refinement, skill, gentleness and refinement in food. A few rules of taste are the foundation of

The book then takes you to the regions of Thailand with characteristic recipes from each, beginning with Bangkok and the Central Plains, the capital and Siam, Ayutthaya and Bangkok, the golden cities and the Chinese influence. The recipes, 21 in this section, are illustrated with full-page, larger-than-life photographs of the food clearly on one page. On the opposite page are clear presentation and serving instructions with the ingredients listed in a box at the bottom with the measurements.

"The Third Way of Life: The Death Game Book" is priced at $1,995. The book is available for sale at Remington and the Dettl Shop located at the mountain level and lobby respectively at (North) Hotel Nikko, Aspen-Corral, Midland City. For inquiries, please call 800-451-2222.

To be so picky is to miss out on every day of the joys, nutrients and breakfast, lunch, and dinner. In the old Soviet Union, there was no such thing as a "pick" vegetable. However, in the tropical, hot climate, lunch should be and is prepared only several days before serving. The pickling process takes about 12 to 14 hours. Almost all available vegetables can be pickled but the most common in Korea are radishes, carrots, and cucumbers. The amazing dachi, garlic, onion, ginger, soy sauce, fish sauce, and salt, turning the fermenting process, the vegetables lose much of their natural flavor and natural value. The flavor of the pickling. The difference is not too big, however, because:

THE AMERICAN TASTE

Made in Asia for Asians

By [Name]
 The Asian American community is growing rapidly, and with it, the demand for products and services that cater to its needs. This is a market that is often overlooked by mainstream businesses, but it is one that is ripe for development. In this article, we will explore the challenges and opportunities for businesses serving the Asian American community.

Key Challenges:
 1. Lack of Representation: Many businesses do not have a diverse workforce or leadership, which can lead to a lack of understanding of the needs of the Asian American community.
 2. Cultural Differences: Understanding the nuances of different Asian cultures is essential for providing effective service and products.
 3. Language Barriers: Many Asian Americans are not fluent in English, which can be a significant barrier to accessing services.

Opportunities:
 1. Untapped Market: The Asian American population is one of the fastest-growing in the United States, representing a massive potential market.
 2. Diverse Needs: The Asian American community is not monolithic, with members from various countries and backgrounds having different needs and preferences.
 3. Community Support: There is a strong sense of community among Asian Americans, which can be leveraged to support local businesses.

Strategies for Success:
 1. Recruitment and Training: Hire a diverse workforce and provide cultural sensitivity training to all employees.
 2. Language Services: Offer services in multiple languages to ensure accessibility.
 3. Community Engagement: Participate in community events and build relationships with local Asian American organizations.

Conclusion:
 Serving the Asian American community is not just a business opportunity; it is a responsibility. By understanding the challenges and opportunities, businesses can create a more inclusive and successful environment for all.
